

TERMS AND CONDITIONS FOR WRITING FOR ECRIVUS INTERNATIONAL

Ecrivus International welcomes submission of translator articles not to exceed 5000 words. By submitting an article for us to consider publishing on the site, you hereby agree to the following terms and conditions:

- * You certify that you hold the copyright in the submitted article.
- * You retain the copyright in the submitted article.
- * You are solely responsible for the content of your article.
- * You represent that the work is yours alone and does not infringe upon another's copyright. If the content of your article or your copyright is challenged, you are solely responsible for handling the challenge and you hereby indemnify and hold Ecrivus International harmless from any liability resulting from any such challenge.
- * You hereby give permission for us to publish your article on ecrivus.com, subject to the site's stated terms and conditions as well as to the provisions of "terms and conditions for writing for Ecrivus International".
- * We have the sole and unfettered discretion to publish or not publish your article, with or without explanation to you.
- * We will not pay royalties, expenses or any other compensation for your article.
- * If we publish your article on ecrivus.com, we will identify you in the article as the author and will include your contact information so that readers may be in direct touch with you.
- * You may post a link on another web site which links directly back to your article on ecrivus.com
- * We do not accept any content, articles, illustrations, figures, or other content that is not 100% original and created by you. Plagiarism in any form is not permitted.